TWO BANQUETS SAME NIGHT CAUSE OF DIVISION

Governor Friend Richardson
And Will C. Wood Due
Here In Rival Meets

Efforts to change either the date of the February forum dinner of the Chamber of Commerce or the Fathers' and Sons' banquet of the Y. M. C. A., so that the appearances of Governor Friend Richardson and Will C. Wood, state superintendent of schools, will not conflict, have failed. Rex C. Kelley, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and Zola Lee McDowell, president of the High School Teachers' club, under whose auspices Mr. Wood is to speak in Glendale, both said today that it has been found impossible to shift the date in either instance.

Politicians who know that Governor Richardson and Superintendent Wood do not travel the same political paths see a possible clash when the two state officials arrive in Glendale for addresses on one and the same night. The school head has shown he is not in sympathy with the governor's economy program and, too, they have clashed over the governor's message on the teachers' retirement act.

Governor Richardson has accepted an invitation to address fathers and sons at the annual banquet given under the direction of the Glendale Hi-Y club on February 9. Arrangements to have the governor speak were made after a great deal of effort by Assemblyman Frank C. Weller, administrator.

King Tut Tomb Explored For Further Relics

LUXOR, Egypt, Jan. 26.—Howard Carter expected to start work today upon the sarcophagus of King Tut-Ankh-Amen, but announced that it would be unlikely that the king's body would be disturbed this season, if ever.

The American Egyptologist showed great distress when the opening of the tomb revealed that the pall of the king's sarcophagus, a priceless piece of gold-embroidered fabric and unique in Egyptian explorations, had been ruined by exposure to sun and air. During the summer it had lain in the tomb covered only with a piece of canvas.

SENATE JUGGLES NAMING OF STONE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The executive session of the Senate dealing with the appointment of Harlan F. Stone to the United States supreme court by President Coolidge, and confirmation thereof, decided, after lengthy consideration, to again refer the question to the Senate judiciary committee for further investigation.

WORLD DISARM AS PRICE OF ACTION, IS PROPOSED

Obligations Worthless, Says
Commoner; Confers With
Coolidge Over Idea

By LLOYD A. BEHRBAS
For International News Service.
Copyright, 1925.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The war debts of the world are poisonous ingredients which are being stirred up into a potage of hate that will lead to another and far more terrible world war unless the United States assumes the moral leadership of the world and exchanges its "worthless debts for priceless peace"—that is the opinion of William Jennings Bryan.

At a time when the administration is bending every effort to collect its war-time obligations, even to the extent of restraining relations with some of the debtors, Bryan came forth today with an out and out plea for cancellation. He talked it over with President Coolidge on Saturday.

The commoner would make the price of this unparalleled generosity on the part of the United States world disarmament.

America is to buy "priceless peace" with some eleven billion dollars of "bad debts."

"The war debts will never be paid," said Bryan. "Europe has no intention of paying them, and continued efforts on our part to collect them are merely losing us more friends than we ever made in our large contribution toward the winning of the war."

May Be New War

"And even more important, by insisting upon their payment we are losing a wonderful opportunity to render a great service to the cause of peace. Maggot-like hates are now breeding in Europe that may easily lead to another war with the United States the righteous and innocent, but contributing cause."

"The speech recently delivered in the French Chamber of Deputies by Deputy Marin represents the sentiment of the government and the people of France. They have argued themselves into the belief that there is no moral basis for the debts and that we really owe them money and gratitude. One Belgian official has even gone

GLENDALE FIREMEN RADIO FUND GROWS

Need for Receiving Set Demonstrated Sunday When Inclement Weather Made Hours of Day Lengthy

Glendaleans failed to heed the challenge hurled Saturday by a little lad through his contribution of 10 cents to the fund being raised by The Glendale Evening News to be used in purchasing a radio receiving set for employees of the Glendale fire department.

While the youth gave his mite, a small sum, but at the same time a donation that carried with it a spirit worth thousands of dollars, other residents of Glendale passed up the opportunity to make someone else happy, as the boy sought to do. He could not afford to give much, but he gave all he could.

If there was ever need displayed for the use of a radio receiving set for the firemen, who protect lives and property without any regard of the risk involved, it was noted yesterday when the dismal weather kept the fire fighters inside. While other residents of Glendale sat comfortably before their radio sets, listening to sermons, music and addresses, the firemen had nothing with which to make the long hours of constant watching and waiting seem brighter.

Offers Battery

G. G. Budwig, proprietor of Budwig Radio, California street and Brand boulevard, shows the proper spirit in the following letter, which was sent "To the Firemen, Glendale Fire Department":

"I notice in the Glendale Evening News that there is a campaign on to raise the money to buy you boys a radio receiver.

"I have not forgotten the time you fellows came out to my home and put a fire out. So when you get ready for the final hookup, you can count on us to furnish the 'B' batteries. No charge, of course.

This is a small contribution, but will help you out a little anyway."

POLICE SEEK MAN REPORTED AS SHOT

Informant Gives His Name
As Frederick Palmer,
Hollywood Firm Head

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26.—The police were confronted with an unusual mystery today when they received a report that a man representing himself to be Frederick Palmer, head of the Palmer Photo-play corporation, had telephoned Miss Nancy Lee, film actress, that he was shot and dangerously wounded in a South Figueroa street rooming house. However, friends and business associates of Palmer at the company offices emphatically denied he had been shot and stated Mr. Palmer was out of the city.

"For God's sake, come quick, I've been shot!" was the agonizing words Miss Lee is said to have heard over the telephone, according to her report to the police. She also said she had asked the name of the speaker and was told that it was Palmer and that he had been shot in the Figueroa street rooming house. Miss Lee called Palmer's wife and the police were notified.

The mystery deepened when investigating officers failed to locate Palmer at his offices, residence or any address in the vicinity of Eighteenth and Figueroa streets, where the shooting is said to have taken place. Officers of the Palmer corporation continued to maintain they were almost certain that Palmer had not been shot and expressed the opinion that the mysterious telephone call probably was a hoax.

KUHNLE RECITAL TOMORROW NIGHT

Four Periods of Music Will Be Represented When
Program Is Given

Representing four periods of musical development the recital program to be presented tomorrow night at the Tuesday Afternoon club by Wesley Kuhnle, local pianist, promises much of interest for both musicians and music lovers.

In arranging his program, Mr. Kuhnle asked for requests from his many friends, with the result that the program, with the exception of the Bach and Schoenberg numbers, has been chosen by others than the artist himself. The program will include compositions by Bach, Mozart, Schoenberg, Cowell, Chopin, Paderewski and Schubert-Tausig. Of the periods represented Mr. Kuhnle says:

"Bach is from the polyphonic period; Mozart from the classic; Chopin and Paderewski from the romantic; Schoenberg and Cowell from the ultra-modern. Bach and Mozart are recognized by some authorities as the greatest masters of all time. The 'Prelude and Fugue in E Flat,' which will be my first number, is one of the famous forty-eight preludes and fugues by Bach, composed to demonstrate the advantages of the use of equal temperament in tuning keyboard instruments as against unequal temperament.

Second Group
"My second group will be Mozart's 'Sonata in A Major.' In Mozart's time the piano was a small instrument with a keyboard a little more than half that of the present piano, which accounts for the lightness of tone and style and the limited range of Mozart's sonatas.

"Schoenberg and Cowell are outstanding figures of the ultra-modern art world. Realizing the utility of saying the things the old masters said in the way they have said it, these two men, the former Viennese and the latter American, are carving their own paths to new fields. While Schoenberg's 'Six Pieces' sound very dissonant and unfinished to new ears, they are built on a very logical plan and are quite complete. The strangeness lies in the new ears and not in the pieces. The Cowell piece employs a new technique, using fingers, fist, flat hand and the whole forearm. This new type of chord he calls 'tone clusters.'"

The public is invited to hear the program.

DANCE TO FOLLOW SHOW ON FRIDAYS

Syncopeation To Start When
Dobinson Players End
Night Production

Friday will not be a blue night in Glendale—at least from next Friday on, for the ballroom adjoining the Playhouse in the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse is to be thrown open Friday night at 10:30 o'clock with a fanfare of syncopeation, a nocturnal sunburst of jazz.

In other words, the youth of Glendale who attend the Friday night performances of the Dobinson Players may thread their way, in eager, colorful procession, into the ballroom and dance to high-heated music until 1 o'clock Saturday morning. Of course there will be no age limit, although Florence Dobinson stated today she had thought of barring all boys and girls over 21.

Now, not only will tender girls and gallant youths be thus permitted to toss off the robe of care and enjoy a rapt hour; and not only will those a bit older find themselves recapturing trembling fragments of their half-forgotten youth, but there will be candy obtainable for a slight consideration, and—eventually—Mrs. Dobinson expects to inaugurate sandwiches and pleasant fruit portions and other minor delicacies.

Engage Orchestra

Announcement soon will be made of the hiring of a certain jazz orchestra with reputation for playing troubling blues, derby-hatted music and saxophone melodies ranging from tunes full of soothing and sighing homesickness to hysterical harmonies that mount to demented horse-laughs.

A high standard of conduct will be observed, in keeping with the grace and dignity of the clubhouse. It is hoped that Glendale now offers a place where its splendidly representative youth may seek and find wholesome pleasure, say those in charge.

Only persons attending the current play will be privileged, when the final curtain descends, to dance. The first dance will be given following next Friday night's performance of "Love Laughs."

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

One of the pleasures in visiting Sacramento is to see how Governor Richardson conducts the business of state indirectly through his appointees. The governor is a printer, and he is literally surrounded with members of the publishing fraternity. The writer knows something about printing and believing that the work of the governor would be best reflected in the state printing office, in company with others, we gladly accepted State Printer John King's invitation to "look see."

King only recently took over the job from Frank Smith, appointed San Quentin warden. Housed in a new plant, a model for efficiency and labor-saving devices, the printing office is EFFICIENT. Our only criticism might be that it is too economical in matters of equipment.

But building a printing establishment is expensive and not until there is a proven all-year-round need for machinery does it become part of the state's equipment. However, the work does not reflect any lack of equipment, but shows that good use is being made of that to be had.

The loyalty of employees, and particularly their apparent desire to earn every dollar paid them, is something worth noting, also. Mr. King is more than appreciative of this co-operation.

There is every reason to believe Sacramento is going to be the center of more lobbyists than ever before at the last half of the legislative session. Practically every argument imaginable has been started, even to the introduction of the perennial anti-trading stamp bill. Among those who will have interests to look after are the druggists, doctors, railroads, publicly-owned utilities, corporations in general, insurance companies, oil producers and refiners, motorbuses, auto clubs, women's clubs, and so on.

And most of the grief for these various interests comes from the state's desire to increase its revenue. Would that the state were endowed by taxes on its natural resources, the most reasonable of all suggestions the writer has heard.

When people read a dozen different dispatches from Sacramento, as are printed in The Glendale Evening News, it might interest them to know that they represent the work of a half dozen separate reporters, for no one man could cover all of the activities of 120 legislators, in addition to the routine of state government.

Included in the writers of three separate news gathering organizations there are those who deal with the editorial and human interest angles; a political economist, reports in both the Assembly and Senate, another watching committees and individuals and still another carrying on routine work.

And not only is this gathering of news truly represented in Sacramento, but central points all over the world there are scores of trained men working to the one objective of giving you the latest news FIRST.

The legislative recess is going to give time for consideration of the bushel basket of bills which flooded the Legislature at the last minute. Many of these thousand or more measures will never pass out of committee. But there are others which are worthy of watching. Tinkering with the law is no humorous matter.

It strikes the writer, however, that Frank C. Weller introduced one bill of considerable merit. It makes a new crime and provides for punishment therefor. "Neglect homicide," as the crime is called in the statutes of Michigan, is directed particularly against the "hit and run" driver of motor cars.

The latitude allowed juries in manslaughter cases by this proposed law would work as a deterrent of reckless and careless driving.

Mr. Weller also is handling several important bills having to do with the organization of municipal courts in Los Angeles. His choice as chairman of the judiciary committee and his selection by the county bar association to foster its measure indicates the high standing of the Glendale man in his chosen profession.

"Search for Happiness"
At Christian Church

Taking "The Search for Happiness" as his subject and Proverbs 3:13 as his text, Guy Moore, speaker in the Occult Science of Christ church, 113 South Orange street, delivered last night a sermon as follows:

"Happiness is the goal of each life, it is, consciously or unconsciously, the end and aim of all effort. We seek it day by day, sometimes with vigor and enthusiasm and again with weariness and discouragement, but we constantly seek it. Happiness is not the same to all. To one it means fame, to another it stands for wealth, and perhaps to a third it is health, but to each of us it means the goal of life, and that is the same to all.

"However, with all our desire and effort, we constantly fail to avail ourselves of all the avenues and channels that are open to us to attain happiness. Work does not always insure it. There are many sincere, hard-working people whose efforts are not attended by this supreme possession. There are, however, certain definite laws whose use and application by us will insure our attainment of happiness and all that goes with it. We are living in a world of law, and the same law that preserves the stars and planets above us in perfect harmony and order can also be made to manifest the same harmony and order in our human lives.

Power of Thought

"Now, Occult Science tells us that it is by the power of thought that this law is used and applied by us for the establishment and promotion of our happiness. Thought is one of the most dynamic and practical forces that there is within or without us, and it can be used by each one of us to bring to himself those things that constitute happiness. By the power of thought, one can mould his life and his environment as he wills to have them; it is the instrument of the constructive life, and we must learn the ways to utilize this tremendous force. We must possess will, incentive and interest, however, if we intend to use this power for practical purposes.

"Will, incentive, and interest are the trinity of all accomplishment and genuine happiness, and when we have made these three qualities a part of ourselves, have incorporated them into our characters, we shall have placed our feet upon the pathway of happiness. Because of this new realization, we shall know that we are the masters of our fate and the captains of our souls, and we shall tread the path of our lives with a calm confidence and certainty that is born of knowledge, knowing that there is within us 'a power that maketh all things new.'"

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, Jan. 26.—February 9 is the date set for the first hearing of the petitions asking the county supervisors to call an election for the purpose of voting on incorporating a city of the sixth class in Tujunga. This is the fourth time the incorporation issue has been brought before the supervisors in the past five years. The other appeals for an election, with one exception, were not granted. The exception resulted in the defeat of the issue by a small majority at the polls.

The present petition is being circulated carefully in every part of Tujunga to determine the exact sentiment of the voters and nearly 400 voters have signed the papers, according to reports. A large number of signers is being secured on the present petition to forestall any doubt as to the wishes of the residents, as was the case at the last hearing when several conflicting petitions were presented to the supervisors with the result that they refused to call an election on the issue.

Many people of Tujunga believe that the time has come for the town to either take the reins of government into its own hands or step down from the driver's seat and relinquish the control to one of the several alternatives which are continually being advanced by anti-incorporationists who are desirous of annexing the community to some other established community with local government. The argument in favor of incorporation or annexation to an incorporated city is that the county supervisors cannot or will not give the local problems the attention which a resident board of governors would. Evidence of this so-called laxity on the part of the supervisors is set forth by these in favor of incorporation in the manner in which a prohibitive zoning ordinance was passed and other instances of unfamiliarity with local conditions.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Tujunga Valley bank resulted in the election of these officers: Emil Kirchner, president; Arthur F. Wells, vice president; Erwin L. Sweet, cashier; A. F. Ulrich, assistant cashier; Emil Kirchner, Arthur F. Wells, Erwin L. Sweet, G. J. Fischer, George C. Buck, A. Adams and Julius Kirchner, directors.

A semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent was declared, the first to be paid by the Tujunga bank. A report by the cashier showed that deposits of the savings department have increased $16,680 in the last year and the bank surplus has been increased $2,000 in that time. The report also stated that $1,000 has been disbursed to stockholders in the past year. A thrift campaign among the school children has resulted in deposits of over $600 being made by the pupils in the grammar grades, through the medium of small banks distributed by the bank.

Mr. Beckwith and Mr. Leland, of the Union Oil Company of California of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Beckwith and Mrs. Leland, recently called on friends in Tujunga.

City Council Issues Notice About Rubbish

The City Council has found it necessary to co-operate with the street department by issuing the following notice in regard to throwing rubbish about the streets:

"It is unlawful to throw, place, scatter or deposit any rubbish or waste matter, or to sweep such material from stores, warehouses or other buildings into the alleys, streets or gutters of the city of Glendale.

"'Rubbish' is defined as leaves, chips, paper, paste board, magazines, books, grass, rags, carpets, clothing, boots, shoes, hats, straw, packing material and all other kinds of combustible rubbish or refuse or waste materials.

Food Handlers Tested By Health Department

Almost 1,000 food handlers have been examined by the health department in the past two weeks, reports Dr. G. Kaemmerling, city health officer. Of these, only six were refused certificates; the reasons assigned being communicable diseases.

Dr. Kaemmerling estimates that a total of 2,000 handlers will be examined before his work in connection with issuing certificates under the new food handlers' ordinance is completed. By the terms of this ordinance, recently passed and now effective, no one can handle food within the city limits of Glendale, without having a health certificate issued by the health department.

BIRTHDAY OF MEMBER IS OBSERVED

Mrs. Juliana Hayes of Sunset Club, Honored; Original Poem Is Read

With the roses in her cheeks as bright as the day years ago, when she was the war-bride of the young Ohioan, who marched away to the Civil War with the historically noted "Oberlin College Regiment," Mrs. Juliana Hayes, well-known member of The Glendale Evening News Sunset club, celebrated her eighty-second birthday Saturday, entertaining club members and other friends at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Alexander, 1214 South Maryland avenue.

It was the second celebration of the birthday anniversary, for on Friday, which was the birthday date, Mrs. Hayes was honored by the Women's Relief corps of N. P. Banks post, G. A. R., of which she is a prominent and active member.

Receiving with Mrs. Hayes on Saturday were her daughter, Mrs. Alexander, and their cousin, Alice Stebbins Wells of Los Angeles. Assisting them was Mrs. Fannie Gile.

The affair proved a most happy gathering of members of the Sunset club. There were present Mrs. Zilpha A. Parker, Rev. William G. Cowan, A. H. Cleveland, Mrs. Sarah Ellen Plannette, Levi Weller, Mrs. Addie G. Carter, Mrs. Della R. Stone, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ireland, Jeffrey Wisner Gillette, George M. Walton and Mrs. Hayes. Others present were Mrs. C. M. Sparr, Mrs. J. L. Simmons, Mrs. Jane Tuttle, Mrs. Minnie M. Ayres, Mrs. Anna Patterson, Mrs. Fannie Gile, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Booth, Mrs. Wells and Mrs. Alexander.

Mrs. Hayes was the recipient of many gifts and messages. Yellow and white were the colors used in the appointments for the refreshments. Late in the afternoon a white birthday cake lighted with yellow candles was placed before the honoree.

During the early part of the afternoon Mrs. Hayes presided over an informal program, which opened with songs by Frank Booth. Later Mr. Cowan gave a recitation on "The Flag." Mrs. Stone gave a girlhood reminiscence; Mrs. Wells said a beautiful tribute to Mrs. Hayes, saying to the company present "she is your friend but she belongs to us."

Mrs. Simons gave the following original poem:

Mrs. Hayes, we come to you, Bringing greetings fond and true. I sat thinking last night of friendship, That quality so rare in man, That word oft used, more oft abused By mankind through a whole life's span. I dreamed of an ideal friendship, Of a life growing sweet and true, When a man served friends, not selfish ends, And thus gave a soothing balm, The years may come and years may go, But friendships stay forever. Traveling on to eighty-two, Doing deeds that come to you, Making merry all the day, Being jovious all the way, Life looks brighter further on. So today, we come to greet you And converse of days ago, Though the days be long or short, We can think it all great sport To plan our ways of having fun As on our journey one by one We go here and we go there, Making friendships everywhere. While we work and while we play, Scattering sunshine on our way, Knowing well that life is earnest And the grave is not its goal, For we travel on and upward To the realm of the soul. When the thrills of life are over And we've reached the other side And the crown of life is handed you or me Then will come the joyous rapture Of a soul grown pure and white In the presence of its Master Out of darkness into light, Making all about us jovious As our Maker has us do, So my friend again we greet you In your years of eighty-two.

Three Fires Call Out Firemen on Saturday

Again at 9:15 o'clock, a flaming incinerator on the premises of the J. G. Caddell motor car agency at Brand boulevard and San Fernando road called out the firemen, Chief Lankford in charge and at 10:45 o'clock a rubbish pile in the rear of the new Woolworth store at 113 North Brand boulevard, brought apparatus from the fire department to the scene, Captain Meyer in charge.

ENLARGE POSTOFFICE AS AID TO ATWATER

Substation at Gateway Market Being Remodeled; Miss Allie Smith is Appointed Assistant Clerk

Remodeling and enlargement of the Glendale postoffice substation in the Gateway Market, in order to accommodate the ever-increasing postal business, is now completed. The office serves residents of the Atwater Park district.

A room to the rear of the original postoffice quarters in the market building has been remodeled and will serve as part of the office in the future. Other alterations to increase the efficiency have been made.

Postal business in the southern section, served by the Gateway branch office, has increased greatly during the past six months. Since January 1 the increase has been even more marked, according to figures of Claude Caswell, in charge of the office. Better facilities for the patrons will be available with the completion of alterations.

Miss Allie Smith has been assigned as assistant clerk at the branch office. Miss Smith came here recently from North Dakota, where she was a member of the Bible study.

RAIN CUTS SHORT AIR RODEO STUNTS

Daredevil Pilot Gives Some Thrillers at Airport Before Downpour

The Air Rodeo opened yesterday afternoon at Glendale Airport with sensational stunt-flying and wing-walking by Al Gilhausen, aerial daredevil. Hundreds of people who had gathered for an afternoon of thrills had their fun cut short by rain falling at 3 o'clock.

Next Sunday, to make amends for the prank of Jupiter Pluvius, airport officials promise something really sensational—an air battle between two planes, 3000 feet up. Anti-aircraft guns will harry the ships from below and they will retaliate by letting go bombs at the "enemy," staging a sham battle de luxe.

This announcement came today from W. B. Kinner, president of the Kinner Airplane & Motor Corp., who was in charge yesterday. The high power lines at the south end of Glendale Airport, long considered a menace to flyers, will be removed this week, in preparation for Sunday's big circus, he said, an agreement having been reached between the Glendale Airport association and the City Council.

Extension Plans
Plans are also under way to have the western extension of Grand View avenue closed at the entrance to the airport, Mr. Kinner said. This important step has been contemplated for some time, and when done it will make this field one of the best and safest in Southern California, authorities agree.

Little Players' Studio Presents Good Program

The Little Players' studio at 1412 South Brand boulevard was the scene of a pleasing program and enjoyable reception Saturday afternoon, when the director, Miss Hazel Campbell, presented one of her most promising beginners, Berenice Gardner, in her first recital. An audience of fifty invited guests was present, the majority of them coming from Los Angeles. The program included the following numbers: "Pat's Reason," "I Ain't Goin' to Cry No More," "The Quarrel in the Oven," "Cured," "The New Baby," "Gramma," "That Old Gang of Mine," "Santa and the Mouse," "Just Depends" was an original number written by Miss Campbell; "Catching Butterflies," a pantomime, and "The Bisque Doll," a reading, were given with musical setting, the accompaniments played by her sister, Evelyn Gardner. Jeanie Campbell, aged 4 years, in a fairy costume, gave a "Springtime" dance. Berenice is the daughter of Mrs. Ellington of 2221 Scott avenue, Los Angeles. Following the program an informal reception was held and refreshments served.

Baptists Call Monthly Meeting on Wednesday

WELSH CHORUS IN CONCERT TONIGHT

Famous Singers Will Appear At High School Under Kiwanis Auspices

A genuine musical treat is promised at the Broadway High school auditorium tonight, starting at 8:15 o'clock, when the Rhonda Welsh male chorus of sixteen voices is heard in a special concert under the auspices of the Glendale Kiwanis club. This aggregation of singers, each a soloist in his own right, has earned a reputation that has spread over two continents, according to A. L. Baird, chairman of the committee in charge. Yenmita, reputed as one of Canada's leading music critics, says of them:

"There is such crystalline brilliance of tone, so perfectly poised and borne on rhythm so buoyant, that the harmony seems to expand far beyond the confines of choral music. There are basses among them who are good for a bottom D and tenors who can reach topmost Bs, Cs and even Ds, with clearest purity and sweetness."

The Rhonda Welsh male quartet is presented by J. Cosgrove, under the direction of Professor Tom Morgan, with Professor Emlyn Jones as accompanist. Their program will include part songs, solos, duets, quartets and ensembles.

Of all the Welsh musical aggregations, the Rhonda male chorus is regarded as the foremost, but it is not the first. The fame of Welsh choral singing became worldwide when in 1872 a mixed choir consisting mainly of village folk, under the direction of Griffith Rhys Jones, won the Crystal Palace Co.'s $5,500 challenge trophy. The sons of Wales have ever since maintained the high

Rainfall For Year Reaches High Figure

Yesterday's rainfall of .20 of an inch in Glendale brought the season's total to 3.47, which is over twice as much as last year at this time, when the total stood at 1.69 inches. This is revealed by H. E. Bartlett, of 333 West Broadway, who has kept records of local rainfall for over ten years. The rain began at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, after threatening for some hours. It continued well into the night, but today dawned clear. Moderate temperatures and light winds accompanied the precipitation, which is said to have been of immense benefit to ranchers in the San Fernando valley.

Elsewhere in the state, notably in the north, the rainfall was even heavier. San Luis Obispo received 2 inches, according to Col. H. B. Hersey, Los Angeles weather chief; Sacramento, .54 inch; Fresno, .86 inch, and San Francisco, .90 inch.

Bible Class to Hear Lecture on Sabbath

"The Sabbath Question, Is Sunday the Sabbath?" will be the subject at the community Bible class meeting to be conducted by Rev. Maurice M. Johnson at the Broadway Methodist church, South, Thursday night at 7 o'clock. The subject will also be discussed at the meeting February 5. The fellowship dinner will be served at 6 o'clock at the church.

Walking sticks were carried by bridesmaids at a wedding in England recently. Tickets for tonight's concert may be obtained from any Kiwanian, or at Roberts & Echols' drug store, D. L. Gregg Hardware Co., Glendale Phonograph Co., or Valley Mortgage & Finance Co.

OWENS WATER DISPUTE IS PARAMOUNT

Committee's Work During Recess Watched by All Southland

By GIL A. COWAN
For Southland News Service
Special to The Evening News.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 26.—During the recess of the forty-sixth California Legislature three separate committees will be active. Most important to the southland is that which will investigate the Owens valley-Los Angeles water question.

In another section of the state—Madera county—the state land settlement colony at Delhi, will be given the "once over" by salons. And another trio of assemblymen will investigate the courses of study in the state teachers' colleges from Arcata, Humboldt county, in the north, to San Diego, in the south.

The latter is but one of several moves directed at the politico-educators as a result of their attack directed at administration members of the Legislature seeking re-election last November.

Another resolution directed the board of regents of the University of California to hold hearings on the eighteen different sites proposed for the southern branch university, thus bringing that subject to a focus.

Senator Herbert C. Jones of San Jose, temporary chairman of the Los Angeles-Owens valley commission, granted the writer an exclusive interview on the method of procedure determined upon.

Fifth Member Sought
Today he wired representatives of both sides of the controversy to submit names from whom the fifth member will be selected by the two senators and two assemblymen. Subject to the committee.

Daily Greeting to News Readers

A DAY WITHOUT—

One good laugh is like a room without an airing.
One splendid effort is like riding through a desert.
Some hard thinking is a sin against our divinity.
A bit of love expressed is like a garden without flowers.
Lifting someone's load is like a motor racing in neutral.
Noticing anything beautiful is like walking through a tunnel.
A prayer is like a bird without wings.

PLANT TREES

All kinds of vegetation grows and flourishes in this section of California. Therefore the question naturally arises in the minds of strangers, "Why do not the people of Southern California take full advantage of the benefits of climate that are peculiar to this section?"

Glendale has won distinction in so many ways that they cannot be enumerated here, but some of our neighboring cities surpass us in the shaded beauty of their streets. Nothing adds so much to the attraction of a residence street as a row of shade trees on either side, and, while it is desirable to have the kind of tree that harmonizes with the location, almost any variety of tree is better than none.

A few of our streets are notable for their beautiful shade trees, but more of them, in fact, all of them, should be beautified in this way. A change that requires the slaughtering of fine, old trees is a questionable progress, but, be that as it may, a property owner usually has the right, at least the legal right, to murder trees on his own land. We cannot prevent this, we can only offset the destruction by planting trees to take the place of those so ruthlessly slain.

Trees not only bring beauty but they provide cooling shade and help to conserve moisture, two items that should not be overlooked. Half the attraction of some of the high class subdivisions in and near Glendale and elsewhere in Southern California is in the preservation of liveoaks and sycamores and other natural growth, making the architecture conform to the background furnished by Nature. Where there is no natural growth, or where it has already been destroyed, the matter can be remedied only by planting more trees.

As was stated above, almost any kind of tree is preferable to none. Many people despise the palm, and it has no particular beauty, but its tropical nature and appeal make up for what it lacks in form. The eucalyptus, while not suitable for planting in parkways in all sections, has a beauty of form that attracts the true artist. The cry of "dirty tree" is heard when the pepper is mentioned, but the delicate grace of its leaves and branches and the cheer afforded by its red berries in mid-winter should more than offset its disadvantages. The magnolia, the camphor, the many varieties of acacia and many others are admired by the newcomer from the east because they are peculiar to this climate. In the east we had but a few trees from which to select. Here their number is legion, and many of the fruit and nut trees, even, are ornamental and may thus be made to do double duty.

Consult your nurseryman if you are in doubt what trees to plant. He can advise you how to enhance the beauty and thus the value of your home and your street. By all means let us plant more trees.

SERVING THE STOMACH

An observer from Mars might be excused for making the deduction that the people of the earth, at least this corner of it, have for their motto, "We live to eat," considering how much time is spent producing, manufacturing and preparing food, eating it and then earning money to buy more. Nature requires that we repair the waste in our bodies with nourishment, but there is no demand for anything but the simplest foods, simply prepared. Some housewives like to tempt their families with dainty and appetizing mixtures of all kinds, and most families like to be tempted that way, but the custom is not conducive to continued good health, especially for those who have reached or are nearing middle age.

It used to be thought that ill health was a dispensation of the Almighty and that a person was fleshy because an all-wise Providence decreed it so. But now we know that three-fourths of the ills of mankind are due to indiscretions in diet and that no one is fleshy unless he or she overeats. Of course some thin people are gluttonous, the surplus food they eat does not make fat. But the fleshy person proclaims his habits to the world.

Dr. Lulu Peters, whose articles appear daily in this paper, and her thousands of followers, have proved that nothing stands in the way of anyone reducing to his normal weight but lack of will power, and that many bodily ills disappear with loss of flesh. Many who have thought themselves exceptions to the general rule have found that, after all, Nature has no favorites.

Many people do not overeat. More people are eating sensibly today than ever before, but if those of us who do eat too much should reduce our diet one-half and spend half the time now consumed in preparing and eating and thinking about our food in improving our minds, what a cultured people we might become, not alone in the knowledge we might gain in the time set aside for reading, but in our emancipation from the reign of the stomach that holds so many of us down to earth. We cannot serve two masters, and when the stomach rules, the individual cannot make much progress, either mentally or spiritually.

IS LIBERTY DESIRABLE?

Those who prize liberty so highly (meaning the elimination of law) and cry so loudly for it should go back to Ruskin and learn what liberty really is. Liberty is an attribute of the lower animals and is dishonorable in itself, for no human being, no matter how great or powerful, he points out, was ever so free as a fish. There is always something a man must or must not do, while the fish can do as he likes and the ocean is wide and fins are wonderful propellers. Would the man who chafes against restraint be a fish?

It is restraint that is honorable to a man, for it is that which characterizes the higher creatures. "As the first power of a nation consists in knowing how to guide a plow, its second power consists in knowing how to wear the fetter," says Ruskin. And he describes this fetter as "the typical instrument of the restraint or subjection necessary in a nation—either literally for its evil-doers, or figuratively, in accepted laws, for its wise and good men. You have to choose between this figurative and literal use, for, depend upon it, the more laws you accept, the fewer penalties you will have to endure and the fewer punishments to enforce. For wise laws and just restraints are to a noble nation not chains, but chain-mail—strength and defense, though something also of an encumbrance. And this necessity of restraint, remember, is just as honorable to man as the necessity of labor."

If all our pains are due to dislocated backbones, we want somebody to explain earache to us.

THE WURST IS YET TO COME!

The Penalty of Notoriety

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The penalty of notoriety is that most people like to throw stones at a prominent object.

The writer was once delivering a lecture, and was shot at by a drunken man in the audience. He wanted to shoot something, and the speaker being the most prominent object in view was his chosen target. Luckily, he missed.

The love of being prominent, or famous is in all of us. We want to rise a little above the general mass. It is pleasant to be pointed at and noted as a prominent person.

But there is a trait in human nature that loves to knock those who are prominent. There are thousands of people who would enjoy seeing Henry Ford taken down a peg, simply because he is so rich. There are many people— we believe they are not in the majority—who would enjoy the disfigurement of any public man, from President Coolidge down.

Perhaps it is part of the inferiority complex. Those who are low in the scale do not like to be outdistanced by others, and the reaction upon them is one of envy.

We may rest assured that among those who have been bested in any form in the game of life there are some who do not take it good-naturedly, although the majority do. These people like to attack anyone who is superior.

One of the members of Dr. Percy Stickney Grant's church hit the nail on the head the other day when he said: "He who raises his head above the multitude runs the risk of having it struck."

The bolt that lays low the towering cedar will pass the lowly bush by unharmed, and those plants that bend before the storm will last longer than those that rigidly resist it.

The only way to be safe in this world is to remain unnoticed and unworthy of notice. All success is a sort of venture. No matter what it is that brings a person into prominence—whether ability, or riches—it makes him a target for the venomous shafts of a few lowly.

It is rare, therefore, to find a man who has achieved success who, at the same time, is kindly and free from bitterness.

There are some such, and they deserve a great deal of credit.

There are just enough poor losers in this world to make the lot of the successful not a happy one.

At the same time, it is impossible to be of much use to your fellow men unless you are well equipped with personality, or with money. Those who desire to help their fellow men and seek success for this purpose should have enough philosophy to hold them steady against the assaults of those who want to take them down.

There is something in human nature that resents superiority, either that of ability or of fame, and one must be prepared to bear patiently with this.

In order to live comfortably in this world, you must take the world as it is and not expect people to be ideal.

Optimism may be a mere point of view, but it is valuable for all of us, even though we have no foundation for it. Some one has said that "an optimist sees a light where there isn't any, and a pessimist is the son-of-a-gun who comes along and blows out that light."

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNARD

Ancient traditions, when tested by the severe processes of modern investigation, commonly enough fade away into mere dreams; but it is singular how often the vacuum turns out to have been a half-waking one, presaging a reality.

Ovid foreshadowed the discoveries of the geologists; the Atlantic was an imagination, but a discoverer, represented in history by Columbus, found a western world; and though the faint forms of centaurs and satyrs have an existence only in the realms of art, creatures approaching man more nearly than they in essential structure, and yet as thoroughly brutal as the goat's or horse's half of the mythical compound, are now not only known but notorious.

Thomas Huxley was first to emphasize that it is a truth of very wide, if not of universal application, that every living creature commences in existence under a form different from, and simpler than, that which it eventually attains.

The oak is a more complex thing than the little rudimentary plant contained in the acorn; the caterpillar is more complex than the egg; the butterfly than the caterpillar; and each of these beings, in passing from its rudimentary to its perfect condition, runs through a series of changes, the sum of which is called its development.

In the higher animals these changes are extremely complicated; but within the last century, the labors of such men as Huxley, Von Baer, Rathke, Reichert, Bischoff, and Remak, have almost completely unraveled them, so that the successive stages of development which are exhibited by a dog, for example, are now as well known to the embryologist as are the steps in the metamorphosis of the silkworm moth to the school-boy.

Huxley says that exactly in those respects in which the developing Man differs from the Dog, he resembles the ape.

"Thus, identical in the physical processes by which he originates—identical in the early stages of his formation—identical in the mode of his nutrition before and after birth, with the animals which lie immediately below him in the scale—Man, if his adult and perfect structure be compared with theirs, exhibits, as might be expected a marvelous likeness of organization. He resembles them as they resemble one another—he differs from them as they differ from one another."

Thoughtful men, once escaped from the binding influences of traditional prejudice, will find in the lowly stock whence Man has sprung the best evidence of the splendor of his capacities; and discern in his long progress through a past a reasonable ground of faith in his attainment of a nobler future.

Today's Poem

THOUGHTS IN A LIBRARY
Speak low! tread softly through these halls;
Here Genius lives enshrined;
Here reign, in silent majesty
The monarchs of the mind.

A mighty spirit-host they come
From every age and clime;
They breast the tide of time.

And in their presence-chamber
here
They hold their regal state,
And round the mthrone a noble
train,
The gifted and the great.

O Child of Earth! when round thy path
The storms of life arise,
And when thy brothers pass thee
by
With stern unloving eyes.

Here shall the poets chant for thee
Their sweetest, loftiest lays,
And prophets wait to guide thy steps
In Wisdom's pleasant ways.

Come, with these God-anointed kings
Be thou companion here;
And in the mighty realm of mind
Thou shalt go forth a peer!

P. S. McNUTT IS SUMMONED BY DEATH

Glendale Pioneer, Owner of Sycamore Canyon Ranch; Passes Away, Age 63

Porter S. McNutt, for 20 years a resident of Glendale and known in the early life of the valley as owner of the McNutt apricot ranch in Sycamore canyon, died Sunday, January 25, 1925, at his home on what is now known as Glenoaks boulevard. He was 63 years of age.

Born in Western Pennsylvania, April 15, 1861, Mr. McNutt grew to manhood in that section of the country, graduating from Edinboro college, Edinboro, Pa. Later he graduated in law from Drake university, Des Moines, Iowa, and at first practiced law in that city.

For a number of years Mr. McNutt was an instructor in the law department at Drake university. In 1902 he came to California and in 1904 removed to Glendale, purchasing the large apricot ranch which has since been the family home.

Prominent Attorney
Mr. McNutt rose to prominence as an attorney in Los Angeles during the next decade, and in 1914 he was regarded as one of the leading legal minds of the Southwest. Then, in 1916, came the serious illness from which he never recovered, and which at last claimed his life.

In the eight years that Porter S. McNutt was an invalid in his home at 2209 Glen Oaks boulevard, he saw Glendale go through the most amazing period of its growth. His death marks the passing of one of the most prominent of the men who pioneered and made possible that growth.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Fannie S. McNutt; a brother, Rev. M. B. McNutt of Ohio; two sisters, Mrs. James Sloan of Wichita, Kan., and Mrs. Anna Bowser of New Bethlehem, Pa.; and by a son, Merle S. McNutt, of James-town, Calif.

Funeral services will be announced later by Kiefer & Eyerick.

DEATHS-FUNERALS

E. B. STARKWEATHER
E. B. Starkweather, whose funeral took place Saturday afternoon in the Little Church of the Flowers at 3 o'clock, was born in Port Alleghe, Pennsylvania, November 10, 1841, and lived nearly all his life in the old home town, where he was held in high esteem, being a man prominent in public affairs, holding many town offices, being president of the Board of Education for years. By trade he was a contractor and builder.

Mr. Starkweather was a man who loved his home. A man who always gave of his earthly substance not only to the church, but to the poor and needy. He never let a call for help pass unheeded, "As ye did it unto the least of these ye did it unto Me." A good man has gone to his reward.

In 1864 he was married to Miss Ellen M. Beckwith, a direct descendant of Robert Bruce, king of Scotland.

Mr. Starkweather is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. Marie Gifford, 414 East Wilson avenue. Since coming to Glendale four years ago Mr. Starkweather had been a great sufferer, scarcely being able to leave his own yard.

Many beautiful floral pieces were sent from his old friends in Long Beach, Los Angeles and Pasadena as well as those from Glendale. Five of his old Pennsylvania friends acted as pallbearers, Messrs. Harry Bartle, Wallace Ford, Arthur Hadley, J. Herbert Williams, L. W. Davis of Los Angeles, and Mr. Olmsted of Glendale.

The following out-of-town friends attended the funeral: Mrs. J. C. Knorr, Mrs. A. D. Moon, Mrs. Chas. Hamilton of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bartle, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Ford, Wallace Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hadley, Mrs. W. H. Atwood, Mrs. J. C. Stone of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Davis of Inglewood and Mrs. Charles Tibbatts of Pasadena.

TRACY R. WILDS
Tracy R. Wilds, brother of Mrs. A. G. Olliver, 441 West Milford street, died Sunday, January 25, 1925, at a Los Angeles hospital, aged 52 years. Funeral arrangements will be made later by the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Kolts of 914 East Elk avenue announce the birth of a daughter, Barbara Jean, Sunday, January 25, 1925, at Montefiore hospital. Mrs. Kolts was formerly Miss Carol Willisford, and is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Willisford, residents of Texas.

Nomination of Stone Is Juggled by Senate

The senator is awaiting trial in the Montana federal court. The nomination of Charles B. Warren of Detroit as attorney general was "shelved" today by the Senate judiciary committee to await the outcome of a fight against confirmation of the promotion of Attorney General Stone. The committee "indefinitely postponed" consideration of Warren's nomination after a subcommittee headed by Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho reported it could not approve the appointment.

The Borah committee investigating Warren's record for a week, and its report was filed "without recommendation."

Administration's Program Has Five Hard Weeks Ahead

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
For International News Service.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—With adjournment but five weeks away, the administration faced impassable barriers today in attempting to enact President Coolidge's administrative program before Congress drops its official worries for the long summer vacation.

Five major legislative measures remained on the administration's program, aside from the usual appropriation bills, with all signs indicating they will be defeated or left in the stretch when Congress quits, March 4. They include the Isle of Pines treaty, the Underwood Muscle Shoals bill, the Moser postal bill, increasing postoffice salaries through higher postal rates, a farmer relief bill to aid co-operative marketing and the president's own recommendation for American adherence to the world court.

The Administration Fight
The administration also faces serious difficulty in obtaining senatorial confirmation of the appointments of Harlan F. Stone to the supreme court and of Charles B. Warren as attorney-general. Fights have been waged against both appointments, the immediate attack being aimed at Stone, because of charges that he is "persecuting" Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana, in trying to indict him in the District of Columbia.

The Wheeler clique, which includes such independents as Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho and Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, today planned to force an investigation of Stone's activities toward Wheeler before the Senate judiciary committee. While this would delay his confirmation for weeks, administration leaders were inclined to accept it in preference to an open fight on the Senate floor, with an ever-present threat of rejection.

The outlook for Congress will make little headway on subjects the administration favors and much noise where the president desires quiet.

Governor and School Head In Rival Meets

Administration leader in the lower house at Sacramento, Mr. Weller, who arrived back in Glendale last night following the close of the legislative session, said no change as far as Governor Richardson is concerned can be made. Secretary Kelley said he had communicated with officers of the Chamber of Commerce and with Mr. McDowell in the hope that the forum dinner could be postponed.

Mr. McDowell said that tentative arrangements to have Superintendent Wood speak in Glendale were made several months ago, and that the definite date has been set for ten days. No change could now be made, he said, as Mr. Wood leaves for the east shortly after February 3.

Approximately 500 persons signified their intention of hearing Governor Richardson, following announcement of his appearance, at all church services in Glendale yesterday. Secretary Kelley said there will be accommodations for 600 at the fathers' and sons' banquet which will take place in the basement of the Glendale Presbyterian church. A large number of reservations have already been made.

Although ticket sale for the forum dinner has not yet opened, plans for the affair were announced Saturday. The dinner will be under the auspices of the High School Teachers' club and will take place at the Broadway High school. Formal launching of the Glendale school bond campaign by the Teachers' club will be a feature of the program. It is in this connection that Mr. Wood is expected to speak. Mr. McDowell expressed fears that should Glendale people be split between the two meetings, the effect in favor of the bonds would be lessened.

HOOVER ASKS ALL TO HELP FOR SAFETY

Governors of Every State Asked to Lend Aid To Campaign

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
For International News Service.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The support of the governor of every state in the United States has been solicited by Secretary of Commerce Hoover in the campaign to reduce the heavy annual loss of life in traffic accidents. Machinery has been set in motion looking to general application of recommendations adopted at the national conference on street and highway safety, aimed at putting traffic on a sane basis.

Backed by the endorsement of President Coolidge, the campaign arranged to make available to every state and community information and suggestions for cutting down traffic accidents.

Secretary Hoover has addressed to all governors letters transmitting a copy of the final report of the conference and suggesting that it be called to the attention of state legislatures in the event that new motor-vehicle and highway legislation is contemplated.

Civic Bodies Invited
Secretary Hoover has also sent the recommendations to mayors of cities, local chambers of commerce, motor clubs and safety councils, urging co-operation of these bodies in permanently effecting better traffic conditions.

The department of commerce said that already "the letters pouring into the offices of the safety conference indicate that hundreds of delegates have started, with the assistance of newspapers of the country, to wage a more intensive drive for safety education and safety practice."

"It is also indicated," officials declared, "that railway officials, motor clubs, chambers of commerce, safety councils and other bodies are being brought into closer contact with the work undertaken by other groups. The support of all these groups will be given wholeheartedly to programs, which may be undertaken by officials in the various states."

It was announced that pledges of co-operation have been received from the American Legion, with 17,000 posts and auxiliaries, and also from the National Association of Commissioners for uniform laws.

"The former will mean," the department said, "that several million members of the Legion will, through their local branches, lend their efforts to the promotion of street and highway safety programs."

"The latter will add a considerable force in the attempt to bring about legislation which will reduce the existing confusion of traffic laws between neighboring states."

Glendale Aviator In Air Runs Out of Gas

A flight to San Diego, started Saturday noon by the Four Hundred and Seventy-sixth Aerial Pursuit squadron, with headquarters at Clover field, Santa Monica, nearly ended disastrously, when Lieutenant B. M. Spencer, employee of the Glendale Music Co., ran out of gasoline in midair and was forced to land on a hillside near the Wilshire golf links late yesterday afternoon.

The air squadron, composed of five planes, carrying ten men, left San Diego at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon. At Balboa a heavy rainstorm and dense fog, coupled with strong headwinds, were encountered. In the midst of these adverse conditions Lieutenant Spencer found his main gasoline tank empty. He shifted to the emergency tank, rather than land in the storm, which continued until the planes reached Los Angeles. Just over the Wilshire golf course the aircraft ran completely out of gasoline, and a forced landing was necessary. Several thrills were encountered when several of the pilots barely missed crashing into a group of oil derricks near the beach flying field. Another of the planes had a narrow escape when it grazed the great naval wireless station at the harbor as a result of the fog.

Assemblyman Weller Returns to Glendale

Assemblyman Frank C. Weller of Glendale, administrative leader in the Lower House at Sacramento, returned here last night following the close of the first session of the Legislature on Saturday. Mr. Weller accompanied his wife and daughter back to Glendale. The Wellers will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed M. Lee, 345 North Belmont avenue, from now until the time of the next session of the Legislature, which opens on February 24.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Strength and activity in the oil stocks and reactionary price trends in the industrial stocks featured the stock market today. Significant weakness in American Woolen common and preferred stocks, which broke to the lowest prices since 1919, unsettled the industrial stock list shortly after the noon period and many of the active stocks in the section of the market lost a point or more. Oil stocks continued the upward movement which has been in progress since the turn of the year.

The American Woolen stocks were selected as the principal target of the bearish traders as soon as the market opened. Losing 2 points at its first sale of 52, the common stock broke to 49 in the third hour, while the preferred declared to 85 for a loss of 6 1/2 points. Not since 1919 have these prices been duplicated. A heavy decline in the available surplus of the company and the probable discontinuance of the preferred stock dividend were among the rumors passing the rounds in Wall street today.

The oil stocks were solidly arrayed on the upward side in the market today. Acquiring moderate price gains in the early trading, they refused to become upset by the reactionary behavior of the industrial shares. Higher prices for gasoline were quoted today by the Sinclair company and other important distributors in the middle west, as well as in Canada. Production of crude oil in the Wortham pool showed another heavy decline and substantial premiums for crude oil over posted prices in the mid-continent field were reported.

Skelly oil was an active leader in the independent oil stocks today, advancing 1 1/2 points to a low high at 27 1/2 on heavy sales which included blocks of from 2000 to 5000 shares. Sinclair Consolidated sold up 1/2 point, a new high for the year and fractional advances were scored by Cosden, the Pan-American, Pacific, Pure Oil and other prominent oils.

Except for a small number of the low priced stocks, the railroad shares were inconspicuous. Missouri, Kansas and Texas common gained two points at 34 1/2 in continuation of its upward movement on Saturday.

Sales totaled 1,483,600 shares; bonds, $15,067,000.

CLUBMEN PITCH IN WITH PICK, SHOVEL

Oakmont Men Don Overalls And Complete Four Holes For Golf Course

The close fellowship of work was shared Saturday at the Oakmont Country club by ninety members, who donned overalls, and with picks and shovels, put in an eight-hour day of hard labor that netted the club a saving of $1500 on the new golf course. Sixty other members paid $5 each into the treasury in lieu of their services, adding another $300 to the credit side of the ledger.

Four holes of the second nine were cleared off George Post, superintendent of the course, reported today. The remaining holes of this nine will be cleared within forty-five days, and seeded. By spring there will be an eighteen-hole golf course at the Oakmont Country club.

Saturday's "overall party" concentrated on the northeast end of the new course, where stumps, cactus and sagebrush greeted the members. These ninety club members really worked. Superintendent Post said. They got under way promptly at 8 o'clock and hewed away without letup until noon, when they were served an old-fashioned buffet lunch at the clubhouse, under the supervision of Harry Ellison, manager. The afternoon was spent in like fashion, and at 6:30 o'clock a dinner was served under the supervision of the women members Mrs. Owen C. Emery in charge.

Old-Fashioned Dance
Later there was a genuine, old-fashioned barn dance, the men retaining the costumes in which they had worked all day. Music was supplied by the Oakmont Country Club orchestra, directed by Bill Hatch. C. C. Bowerman, chairman of the finance committee, and Joseph Thompson chairman of the greens committee, complimented the laborers on their work. A similar party will be held next spring, to excavate a hole for the club swimming pool.

Among the Glendale members of the Oakmont Country club who donned overalls were: E. U. Emery, president; R. C. Puffer, William Sparr, Dr. Leslie Eames, Guy Briggs, Peter Diederich, Max Green, C. J. Hatz, P. J. Hayselden, F. P. Newport, M. Walters, E. S. Beggs, J. I. Vernetto, W. C. Kaune, B. A. Mason, Ralph Race and S. M. Simon. Messrs Puffer and Beggs had each a truck. Blasting was supervised by Superintendent Post.

Cancellation of World War Debts, Bryan Idea

so far as to figure out that the United States owes Europe over eighty-five billion dollars.

While Great Britain has promised to pay and gone through the necessary gestures there is widespread feeling in the British Isles that they really owe us nothing. On the contrary, they feel, that they stemmed the German hordes at a great sacrifice to themselves, protecting us until we were ready to enter the fray. While this is absurd, because we have a perfect right to demand that the world recognize that it expresses European public opinion.

"It is questionable whether Europe could pay its debts even if it wanted to pay. In the meantime the United States is being more and more caricatured as a Shylock, rich beyond the dreams of Europe, part of that wealth coming as a result of a war in which our suffering was comparatively light, demanding our pound of flesh.

"I believe the time has come when America should decide to trade this worthless debt for a priceless peace. World peace will be worth more than the eleven billion the allies owe us, even if it were collectible. If we were to announce our willingness to cancel the debts in return for world disarmament it would give the world peace. Even failure could not make the situation worse than it now is.

"We know the European attitude. The time is now ripe. If we delay until the worthlessness of the debt becomes apparent to everyone they will laugh at us. Then we shall have neither the money nor the friendship. We shall have lost our reputation for benevolent disinterestedness and the power to help the world secure a lasting, priceless peace."

MARKET SUMMARY

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26.—Net earnings of the Bethlehem Steel corporation in the final quarter of 1924 showed a substantial improvement over those of the preceding three months, according to official figures received over the wires of E. E. Hutton & Co. The announcement followed a meeting of the board of directors at which the regular quarterly dividend was declared on preferred. The net income for the fourth quarter was $3,015,362.

English refined sugar is said to be selling at a lower price than American granulated, thereby causing difficulty in finding a market abroad for the latter. Sentiment in sugar circles seems to be rather bearish on account of the fear of the weight of new crops being more of a burden than the market can absorb at present prices.

The New York cloth markets were slightly easier, the sales being small, second-hand goods making concessions of 1/4 cent. Western wholesale drygoods distributors report business equal to 1924 and collections fair.

Ship Building Falls Off Nearly Fifty Per Cent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—A drop of nearly 50 per cent in the output of establishments engaged in ship and boat building was reported by the department of commerce today, following a study of data collected at the biennial census of manufactures covering 1923.

Output of the boat builders and repairers totaled $213,232,331, a decrease of 46.8 per cent as compared with 1921. Statistics for shipbuilding plants owned and operated by the federal government are not included in the totals. Of 570 establishments reporting, 101 were located in New York, fifty-four in New Jersey, forty-nine in California, thirty-two in Washington and fifteen in Oregon. Principal items making up the total include: Steel vessels of five tons gross and over, 289; gross tonnage, 286,182; value of work done during the year, $35,622,000; wooden vessels of five gross tons and over, 527; gross tonnage, 118,764; value of work done during the year, $5,475,000.

Athletic Relations in Spotlight At Capital

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—Following close on the heels of a resolution by Senator V. J. Canha, San Francisco, urging the Universities of California, Stanford and Southern California to patch up their athletic difficulties, another resolution adopted by Assemblyman A. C. Finney, Imperial valley, asks that if the severance of athletic relations is to be permanent, written explanations should be forthcoming from the presidents of the University of California and University of Southern California. Both resolutions are conciliatory in tone and urge an early settlement to stop embarrassing a spirit of ill-will between the two sections of the state. Finney's resolution was referred to the Universities' committee.

U.S.-Canada Dope Pact Favored by Senators

If You Buy in Glendale You Are a Community Booster

There can be no Community Development worth while without the help and support of the citizens. Leaders are necessary in every movement, but they cannot do anything alone.

Everyone who lives here is proud of Glendale and the splendid records the city has made. Everyone should go farther than this. We should all feel an interest in the Community and want to do our share in Community development.

We can all patronize home business and home industries. We can help by our patronage to maintain and keep building up our wonderful retail centers. We can spend our money in Glendale.

We should be amazed if we knew how much money Glendale people spend every day. Much of this is spent in Glendale, but some of it goes out of town for merchandise and service that Glendale merchants and Glendale workers are abundantly able to furnish and to render.

Why should any of our money go elsewhere when we are all working for a Greater Glendale and when money spent with the home people means that much to be spent in the upbuilding of the Community and when the same amount spent out of town is robbing the community of that sum?

Do your trading in Glendale and be a real Community booster. Then your money will answer two purposes—buy the things you need and help to develop and advance the interests of Glendale.

SANTA ANA LEADS
RIVERSIDE, Jan. 26.—Riverside, with its romantic Mission Inn—wedding breakfasts a specialty—and San Bernardino with all its lure, failed to coax the brides and grooms away from Santa Ana during 1924, according to marriage license statistics from the three counties surrounding Los Angeles. As in former years, Santa Ana retained its leadership as the Gretna Green of the Southland. Santa Ana marriage licenses were more than the combined total of the two neighboring counties, being 4428. Riverside issued 1812 and San Bernardino 1482.

DEATH RATE LOW
RIVERSIDE, Jan. 26.—Mortality rate in Riverside during the past year was but 11 to 1000 population while the average in the United States was 15 to 1000 according to the report of City Physician W. B. Wells. He based his figures on 29,000 population for Riverside. Only 318 deaths were recorded here during the past year.

BACKS BLYTHE BRIDGE
RIVERSIDE, Jan. 26.—Resolutions favoring the proposed construction of a toll bridge across the Colorado river at the Ehrenberg ferry at Blythe on the Sun-kist trail by an engineering firm headed by J. L. Harrington to be forwarded to Senator Shortridge and Congressman Phil D. Swing have been adopted by the chamber of commerce here. The chamber also endorsed the movement to make the Southern California fair a state fair in accord with a bill now before the state legislature.

ROBINS ARE NUMEROUS
SANTA BARBARA, Jan. 26.—Thousands of robins have descended upon Santa Barbara county within the last few days on their southward flight from points as far north as Alaska. The birds have remained in Santa Barbara an unusually long time because they have been hard pressed for food, according to W. Leon Dawson, one of the leading birdmen of the United States. They are considered one of the farmers' best friends and annually destroy many fruit pests. They are especially attracted to berries of pepper trees.

MISSION PLAY TO REOPEN
SAN GABRIEL, Jan. 26.—The Mission Play will begin its fourteenth annual season at San Gabriel on Sunday afternoon, February 1. John Steven McGroarty, author, will appear at the performance to deliver a short address. R. D. McLean, the veteran Shakespearean actor, will resume the leading role of Fray Junipero Serra. Several new singers and Spanish dancers and a band of Hopi Indian dancers have been added to the cast.

OFFICERS INCREASE INCOME
RIVERSIDE, Jan. 26.—Activities of the Riverside county office of the state motor patrol for the past six months brought into the county treasury a total of $8,969.50. This amount has nothing to do with the income to the county of its share of the gasoline tax. All money received by the county from these sources is for use in maintenance and improvement of highways. There were 1,653 arrests during the past six months.

NEED FIRE PROTECTION
SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 26.—City Attorney William Gubrie has prepared plans for the calling of a special bond election for $60,000 by which the city will be able to purchase new fire equipment. While the exact date of the election has not been determined, it is expected that it will be within the next few months. The new stations planned for this city will be of bungalow type and will conform to the type of residences already erected in the neighborhood.

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, Jan. 26.—An open forum meeting of the local Chamber of Commerce is scheduled for Tuesday night, January 27, at the Eagle Rock branch of the Los Angeles Public Library. Matters of importance will be discussed, including the new street car service, states G. A. Hege, chairman of the committee in charge.

The committee on the boundary question will report. This committee, comprising C. W. Young, W. L. Mann and Mrs. A. E. Reiter, was recently created by the Chamber of Commerce to co-operate with other organizations in northwest Los Angeles, in an effort to untangle the matter of boundaries between the proposed boroughs under the new city charter.

H. C. Warren will report on street lighting activities. There will be a report from the sewer committee, outlining progress since work started last week on section No. 1, at Ellenwood drive and Avenue 45.

Under the new working system at the Eagle Rock water department new services will be taken care of in any part of the city. It is announced, if the applicant can furnish the lot, tract and house number. The department will also receive collections for any part of the city, attend to turning on or shutting off orders wherever city light and power is used and applications for light and power may also be signed at this department.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Allspaugh, well known and prominent residents of Eagle Rock, have left for an extended visit with relatives and friends in the south and east. They will visit their son in Dallas, Texas, for about three months and will spend another three months visiting in Ohio, Michigan and Canada.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26.—A robber met C. J. McCormick, a mail carrier, in an alley near his home at 225 West Forty-seventh street, according to police reports, and apologized for attempting to hold him up. "Aw, shucks!" said the bandit. "I wouldn't rob a mail man. If it hadn't been for some of those Republicans at Washington you would have had it from me. Far be it from me, a Democrat, to rob a mail man."

If one lacks the footwork of a Dempsey, it is foolhardy to argue with rocks. So thinks Buster Keaton. The film comedy star had an altercation with a number of "prop" rocks in a comedy scene at the Keaton studio. When Edward V. O'Hearn tried to collect a debt from J. C. and S. Boris in front of the Pacific Soap Co. offices on Central avenue last December, he was severely beaten up. Now a jury in Superior Judge Monroe's court awarded O'Hearn damages of $1,700.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, Jan. 26.—The date for the visit of foreign consuls to this city, on a tour of the industrial area, has been tentatively set for Wednesday, February 4, announced L. H. Boydston, chairman of the industrial committee of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the San Fernando valley.

A committee from the Burbank and Glendale Chambers of Commerce will meet the consuls and conduct the party to the Theme Hosiery Co. mill in Glendale at 9:30 o'clock in the morning of that day. Mr. Boydston states, and accompany them on the tour.

From the hosiery mill the party will go to the Tropico potteries and from there to the plant of the Western Relief Map Co., also in Glendale. Their next stop will be at the Moreland Truck Co. plant in Burbank, where a unique lunch will be served at the noon hour. During the afternoon the party will visit the McKee cannery plant, the Andrews Jergens factory and the Empire China plant. It is planned to spend about one hour at each place.

The next meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce will be held Tuesday night, January 27, at the Garden hall, Burbank. It is announced by Mr. Boydston, who states that an exceptionally fine program is being arranged, in which the industrial features of the valley will predominate. Among other things it is planned to have the valley industrial institutions provide free souvenirs at the banquet, calling attention to their respective products. From what has already learned in this respect Mr. Boydston says that the guests will need baskets to carry away all of the gifts of the valley industries.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Wheeler of Escondido are guests for a few days at the home of the Misses Hannah and Elizabeth Mountford of Harding court.

SUNLAND NOTES

SUNLAND, Jan. 26.—Postponement was again made by the county supervisors on the hearing of petitions calling for an election on incorporating a city of the sixth class in Sunland. Today is the latest date set for the hearing. In the meantime, the county supervisors are supposed to be visiting the territory which it is proposed to incorporate and determine the boundary lines of the proposed city.

Arrangements were made at the last meeting of the Sunland Chamber of Commerce to have the unlighted portion of Sunland streets added to the lighting district of Tujunga. Joe Spencer was appointed chairman of a committee for this purpose.

No trace has yet been found of the person or persons who recently broke into the home of Ralph Stark and stripped it of practically everything, including a ring and scarfpin highly prized by Mr. Stark as gifts from his mother. Mr. Stark is an employee of the Danish dairy and considers himself lucky that he was not in bed, or he might have lost the clothes he was wearing at the time of the robbery. Additions are being made to the Holsman blacksmith shop on Michigan avenue. H. I. Farr is building a home on his property at Valley Center to be nearer his store.

Jonathan Begg of the Sunland Home for the Aged is anticipating the celebration of his 101st birthday anniversary in April by writing a novel. Mr. Begg believes there is a formation of the Ventura oilfields channel running through Sunland and bases this belief on the knowledge which enabled him to locate the Signal Hill field, as he claims to have done. Since attaining the age of 90 years he has made thirteen inventions, all of which are considered very useful.

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

GET-THIN-QUICK SCHEMES

(This is an article I ran for last year's reducing class. I will anticipate the questions of this year's class by running it again.) There are probably millions of sufferers from overweight in the United States, and there isn't one among this number who has not the desire to reduce. Capitalizing this knowledge, and the fact that dieting and exercising to reduce are looked upon as hardships, unscrupulous concerns are putting certain creams, lotions and salts for external applications for reducing on the market.

They make alluring statements in blatant advertisements that, if you will use their preparations, they will slendelize you, melt you, or reduce you without any effort on your part except the mere application of their product. Compound figures of astoundingly fat women with inner slender, beautifully-formed outlines are shown indicating what will happen under the treatment. Glowing testimonials and enticing promises leap at you lovingly from the pages.

I don't think there are many people who believe these fascinating claims: "Do you want to be slender and beautiful as a girl—rub this on a few minutes in the morning—rub this on a few minutes at night—eat what you want quick!" No, I don't believe enough people believe these things, and I am going to astound you by telling you that they are true! Absolutely! You will get this IP YOU FOLLOW THEIR DIRECTIONS! The directions, however, do not appear in the advertisements. You will see why when I quote from a pamphlet which you get when you buy one of the best advertised. Here it is. Read it carefully:

"Of course you cannot expect to reduce if you put in the inside what you take off outside (!) IT IS, THEREFORE, NECESSARY THAT YOU ELIMINATE SWEETS AND STARCHES FROM YOUR DIET."

Isn't that snappy and illuminating! Read on for further enlightenment:

"EXERCISE IN ADDITION TO USING—(our product)—IS MOST HELPFUL AND ADDS TO YOUR REDUCTION AND GENERAL HEALTH."

But listen, my dear followers, again I quote:

"Your first jar will not produce miracles, especially if your resisting powers are very strong. However, you will see a decided and more rapid improvement with each jar."

This little addition keeps you hopping and, what is more to their point, keeps you hopping with the cash.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

ARM MASSAGE

Massage is invaluable not only in improving the shape of the arms but also the texture of the skin. In a country like ours of well heated houses, evening gowns, sleeveless negligees or ones with mere wisps of chiffon hanging from the shoulders, the arms show even though the newest styles do give us sleeves to the wrist on daytime frocks.

You may read a lot of nonsense about arm massage, special motions of the hands to play upon special muscles, and so on. Don't pay much attention to it. If your arms are too fat you will have to diet, for the arms are an index to your weight and will have too much fat if the rest of your body has too much. If the arms are too thin, take advantage of this winter weather to take cod liver oil and to eat pork and potatoes and cream and such weight making foods.

Rub the arms. If they're fat, rub hard, very hard, kneading the flabby flesh as though it were dough. If they're thin, rub more gently, just enough to stimulate the blood and tone up the muscles as you do when you massage your face. If they're fat, rub with white mineral oil, which is very cleansing but adds no flesh since the skin absorbs it only to throw it off again. But if they're thin, rub with olive or almond oil or a flesh-building cream so that the skin can take up a little bit of these fat-producing oils. Very thin arms cannot be made perfect if the body is hopelessly thin, but a little can be accomplished and the shape of the arms can be much improved by massage.

Most of the work is around the elbows. Sharp elbows are a sign of a great deal of the cream, vapo-fat elbows need a lot of hard rubbing to remove the creases in the skin which, pretty enough in a baby are not pretty in a grown woman. Exercise the "arms" to make them shapely.

You can make your arms beautiful

Have your doctor advise you about it. Manicure regularly and use the buffer generously every day; this will strengthen the nails' growth through improving the circulation under them.

Have your bobbed hair shingled up the back as it eliminates any need for curling and the style is becoming to every type of person. Make the part wherever most becoming, although a suggestion is usually a one-sided part for a round and stout face.

Housekeeping

By LAURA A. KIRKMAN

NEW DISHES THIS WEEK

TOMORROW'S MENU
Breakfast: Oranges, Fried Eggs and Bacon, Toast
Luncheon: Beef Hash, Lettuce Salad, Rolls, Jams, Cocoa
Dinner: Potatoes, Cauliflower, Chocolate Meringue Pie
Coffee

Pot Roast—Buy two pounds of beef from the round. Dredge it with one tablespoon of flour and then sear it till brown in two tablespoons of butter mixed. (Turn it over during this searing.) Now place the meat in a deep pot with one pint of hot water, one diced carrot, two large onions and chopped onions and one diced turnip. Put on the pot cover and let the water simmer for about four hours or till the meat is tender. (As this small amount of water boils away, a little more may be added. But a pot roast needs no more than a pint of liquor in the bottom of the kettle.) The steam inside the tightly-closed kettle cooks the meat. When cooked remove meat and thicken the pot liquor with four tablespoons of flour mixed to a paste with a very little cold water. Serve the beef on a platter with this hot gravy poured over it.

Fish Souffle—Any kind of cold, cooked fish may be used in making this. I assume that there will be about three-fourths of a pound of cod left over from Friday's dinner to be used in this dish on Saturday night (in place of a meat dish). Put one-half cup of stale bread crumbs into a saucepan with two-thirds of a cup of sweet milk and let simmer for five minutes; add the three-quarters of a cupful of shredded cooked cod, one tablespoon of butter, and enough salt and pepper to season to individual liking. Remove the pan from the fire and, when a little cooler fold into the mixture the stiffly-beaten whites of two eggs. Turn contents into four small individual baking dishes and stand these in a shallow pan containing a little hot water. Cover the tops of the little dishes with a buttered paper and slip all into a moderate oven to bake till the soufflé is firm. Serve at once before it falls.

Quick Raisin Bread—Sift together four cups of bread flour, four heaping teaspoons of baking powder and one-half teaspoon of salt. Now mix together two cups of sweet milk and two well-beaten eggs. Stir this milk-egg mixture into the flour mixture and, last, add one cup of seedless raisins. Turn the mixture into two pans and let stand for 20 minutes. Slip the two pans into a moderate oven to bake for 35 minutes.

To Make Quick Nut Bread—Use the above recipe but substitute one cupful of chopped English walnuts for the cupful of raisins.

Tomorrow—Answered Letters
All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Housekeeping" department will be answered regularly in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

The rain yesterday caused a number of wrecks on the city streets. The most serious accident occurred shortly after 3 o'clock in the afternoon, at Glendale avenue and Lexington drive, when, according to police reports today, a car driven by Edgar Ross MacPherson of 106 1/2 West Broadway, skidded into a car driven by J. A. Bratton of Los Angeles, injuring Mrs. Bertha Morris of 237 1/2 North Louise street.

Mrs. Morris was taken to the Glendale Research hospital. Physicians reported today she suffered a gash over the eye, bruises and abrasions about the body. Her condition is not serious.

Medical Missions Are

Discussed at Meeting

"Friendliness As Expressed Through Medical Missions" was the topic last night of the 6 o'clock meeting of the senior intermediate Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church. The meeting was in charge of the missionary department of the society, being conducted by Ruth Yodanis.

Aside from participation by various of the members, special talks were given by Mr. Ono of Korea, who told of the Christian work there, and D. L. Foster of the Bible Institute, who gave the second of his series of Bible talks.

Weather notwithstanding, an enthusiastic crowd of young folks thronged out to the meeting, for the last Sunday of the January attendance contest between the boys and girls. Previous to the meeting a canvass for visitors was held, followed by a boys' rally at 5 o'clock, with music and refreshments. The boys won for the meeting, but the girls were winners for the month, and in view of winning will be treated to a skating party next month.

Sleet in Chicago

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—A fine sleet that froze as it struck the ground made walking perilous in Chicago today and also slowed traffic considerably. With the sleet came a steady drop in temperature and toward noon the storm had reached blizzard proportions. Any great fall of snow was unlikely, however, the weather forecaster said, because of an unexpected cold wave to-night, with the thermometer approaching zero.

Below Zero Mark

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 26.—The return of real cold weather came today when the thermometer dropped to 25 degrees below zero with a biting wind.

CARRIERS ARE VICTORS

Glendale letter carriers were on the long end of a 4 to 1 score when rain halted their baseball game with the Hewitt Tire team from Los Angeles yesterday. In the five innings, "Happy" Richards, on the mound for the postmen, fanned nine men and allowed only a few scattered hits. The game was played at the White Sox park, South San Fernando road.

SWEEP BY STORM

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 26.—Cold, snow and wind approaching the severity of a blizzard that swept the Twin cities and the northwest last night had subsided today. Driven by high winds the storm swept out of the northwest over North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and South Dakota, reaching its greatest intensity in southern Minnesota and South Dakota, where transportation was temporarily halted. Drifts were piled high on roads and in railroad cuts, according to information received here. In southern Minnesota near the South Dakota border, railroads reported their lines blocked.

CHAPTER XXX

"Founded upon a certain amount of proof, which I shall presently produce," Grant went on. "The most urgent matter, however, which I was begged to discuss with you, sir, was the attitude of certain portions of the American Press towards yourself and this country. I shall offer you presently an explanation of that attitude and I am to beg you most sincerely, in the name of the President and the government, to use your influence with the Press of your own country to avoid, so far as possible, recrimination and reprisal."

"It is true, I suppose," Lord Yeovil enquired, "that the New York is no longer conducted in the interests of your government?"

"The New York," Grant replied, "has been purchased by Cornelius Blunn, and is the most dangerous organ in the States today."

The Prime Minister glanced at his watch.

"I fear that, for the present, we must postpone our discussion," he announced. "It has been a great pleasure to see you again, Slattery, and to receive you in an official capacity. No one could have been more welcome—as a representative of your people."

Grant felt a sudden chill. He took his courage into both hands, however.

"I fear, sir," he ventured, "that I seem to have forfeited in your eyes the position of which I was once very proud—the position of being a friend of your household."

Lord Yeovil hesitated. The young man's directness was almost disconcerting.

"I would not say that," he rejoined, a little more kindly. "I am naturally a man of the world, and I am not a hard judge of any man's actions. This is a matter, however, which, if you choose, we will discuss at another time."

Grant rose to leave. There was again a very perceptible hesitation on his host's part.

"Tonight," he said, "I am giving a reception at Yeovil House, a sort of farewell before I leave for Washington. Most of the diplomatic people will be present. If you care to attend, it will give me great pleasure to see that you have a card. You are staying at the Embassy?"

"At Claridge's."

"You will have a card within an hour."

Grant once more summoned all his courage.

"Shall I have the pleasure of meeting Lady Susan?" he asked.

"My daughter has made her debut this season as a political hostess," was the polite but somewhat cold reply. "She will be assisting me tonight."

It was gone, then, the old cordiality, the easy terms of familiarity on which Grant had stood in the household. Lord Yeovil had become to him—as he was to most of the world—a courteous and polished diplomat, kindly and gracious in words and demeanor, but a person who seemed almost outside the amenities of life. And, if the change was so noticeable in him, what had he to expect from Susan?

He was in a somewhat depressed frame of mind when he called in at Carlton White's, he selected the most beautiful roses he could find, and sent them to Yeovil House. Afterwards he went back to the Embassy and kept there until eight o'clock. There were many questions raised over the dispatches he had brought, which were full of vital interest to various members of the staff. Grant could not help contrasting the atmosphere here and the atmosphere in Washington. Geographically the two were not so far apart. The Press, cables, wireless, rapid travel had, in the language of the journalists, brought the two hemispheres side by side, and yet there was an extraordinary difference in outlook in political perspective. Things which in Washington seemed far away, phantasmal, hatched in the brain of the alarmist, inconceivable in real life, here assumed a different appearance. Here, at any rate, it was realized that Europe had become once more a

DOBINSON PLAYERS

"Love Laughs" will open Wednesday at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre for its second week in Glendale, announces Mrs. Florence Dobinson of the Dobinson Players. Mary Worth plays the lead in this sparkling comedy by George D. Parker. It has a dual theme of romance and mystery, furnishing thrills and heart throbs.

The excellent supporting cast chosen for the production includes Mary Isabelle Alpaugh, Joseph McManus, William H. Stephens, Richard Ehlers, Eugenia Florence, Arthur Lovejoy and Harry J. Glazier.

The story revolves about a nerve specialist who is besought by a love-struck bachelor, who asks to be made sick so that he may be nursed by his innamorata. Propinquity, says the bachelor, will bring about the desired engagement. The doctor finally responds to the request and the ten days' supposed illness is on.

It was after half-past ten when Grant, in the suite of his own ambassador, mounted the stairs of Yeovil House and waited for some time in the block which had collected at the entrance to the reception rooms. From where he stood he suddenly recognized Susan, recognized her with a little shock of mingled pleasure and apprehension. His first impression, that she had changed, had grown older in some marvelous fashion, without the loss of any of her beauty or freshness. She wore the gown in which, only a few months ago, she had been presented. Her hair, in the midst of a galaxy of brilliant coils, was arranged as simply as in the old Monte Carlo days, and the jewelry she wore consisted of a simple rope of pearls. Yet she seemed to have assumed without effort and with perfect naturalness a becoming dignity and ease, wholly in keeping with her position as the hostess of a great gathering, and having a certain piquant charm when associated with her extreme youth.

THE GATEWAY

The absurdity of claims that animals in motion pictures are beaten and abused in order to get them to perform is pointed out by Edward Faust, the owner and trainer of Peter the Great, the famous German police dog appearing in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "The Silent Accuser," which is playing today and Tuesday at the Gateway theatre.

Faust illustrated his point by striking at the dog with a club. The dog did not cringe, or move. "If I had beaten that dog in training him he would have cringed when I struck at him," he said. "Peter has never been struck with a club, and has not even learned to fear it."

Faust also points out that the dog would have killed him long ago if he had abused it, for one of Peter's tricks is to leap at his trainer's throat. Faust also lays flat on the ground, and permits the dog to fasten his teeth in his throat. The dog has been trained to do this without leaving even a mark.

Peter has proved the value of the right kind of training by his work in "The Silent Accuser," which Chester M. Franklin directed, and adapted to the screen with the assistance of Frank O'Connor Boardman, Raymond M. and Earle Metcalfe head the cast.

UNCLE WIGGLY AND SAMMIE'S SLED

"Wait a minute, Uncle Wiggly! Wait a minute!" called Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one day, as she saw the rabbit gentleman about to hop away from the hollow stump bungalow.

"What is it?" asked Mr. Longears, turning back and twinkling his pink nose.

"You are going adventuring, I suppose?" spoke Nurse Jane.

"You suppose correctly, lady!" said the bunny, whimsical like.

"Well, on your way home, stop at the drug store and get me a paper of pins," asked Nurse Jane, adding, "if you please."

"I'll do that," promised the bunny. "I suppose you want to read the news out of the paper of pins!"

"Indeed, I don't," laughed Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "I want some sharp pins to pin together a new dress I am making. I'll pin it first and sew it afterwards. So don't forget my paper of pins."

Uncle Wiggly said he wouldn't and so he hopped over the fields and through the woods, seeking an adventure. But none could he find. Then he reached the drug store. In he hopped and bought the paper of pins for Nurse Jane, and right after that he had an adventure.

The bunny was hopping along, over the snow, when, all at once, he heard a sound of jolly voices. "That isn't the Bob Cat or the Fox," said Uncle Wiggly. "It sounds like the animal boys and girls coasting down hill."

And so it was. Putting the paper of pins in his pocket, Uncle Wiggly hopped along until he reached the coasting hill. There he saw Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrels; Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, the puppy dogs, and many other animal children, having fun.

Hello, Uncle Wiggly! cried Sammie Littletail, a rabbit boy. "Don't you want a coast on my sled?"

"Thank you, Sammie, I should like to try it," said the bunny. Uncle Wiggly watched the other boy animals pick up their sleds, run a little way with them and then, suddenly, fling the sled down and throw themselves on top of it. Gliding down the hill they would go.

"I guess I can do that!" thought Mr. Longears. "I used to when I was a young rabbit, and that isn't so many years ago." So he took Sammie's sled, ran with it, threw himself down on it, "ker-flop!" and down the hill he coasted.

"Oh, this is fun!" laughed Uncle Wiggly as he ran up the hill after his coast, with Nurse Jane's paper of pins still in his pocket.

Again he threw himself on the sled, and, as he did so, out of the bushes looked the Wootie Wolf, who was very hungry.

PUTTING CONTEST TO START TODAY

Unique Indoor Tournament Arranged for Golfers; Entry List Open

Play in the Community Service putting tournament is scheduled to open today at Cornwell & Kelly, 107 South Brand boulevard, with thirteen names on the entry list to date. The entry list will remain open until Saturday night and contestants can use their own putters or clubs will be provided. The tournament will be staged on an indoor practice green, with a putt of seven feet. Six holes will be played straight, six with the green tilted to left, and the remaining six holes with the green tilted to right. Contestants must pick partners before Saturday night, or those in charge of the tournament will make the pairings.

Contestants are permitted to practice as much as they desire before their tournament play. First prize will be a dozen golf balls, valued at $5, donated by Cornwell & Kelly. Other prizes will be added money, the entrance fee of 25 cents each going as prize money.

Golfers who have entered the tournament are: C. J. Hatz, J. A. Endicott, G. E. Farmer, O. H. Belov, George B. Doran, L. R. McMillan, Dr. T. C. Young, N. C. Hayhurst, Max L. Green, C. C. Cooper, A. S. Hall, R. E. Goode and J. A. Kazmark.

BOWLING SCORES

To correct a report on a Mercantile league bowling match Friday night at Recreation Center, the Smokehouse team won two out of three games and was not over-whelmingly defeated by the Pioneer Brothers' crew as the score indicated. The correct scores were: Smokehouse, 832-903-875; Pioneer Bros., 908-815-806. The error was caused by the scorekeeper who neglected to add 170 to each game as average for one member of the Smokehouse team who was absent. Under the rules of the league, a team using only four men takes the average of the missing member, as determined in games for the first half of the season, and counts in the score. The scorekeeper Friday night counted everything but the average.

Second Week of City Hoop Schedule Opens

The second week of the City league basketball tournament will get under way tonight at the Harvard High school gym when the Standard Oil team will meet the Methodist Episcopal church team. The Oilers dropped their opening game last week to the Hull Trucks after an exciting contest. The church team lost to the Calla Lily tappers Thursday night. Tomorrow night one of the feature games of the week will be staged between the Oilers and Calla Lily Creamery, and Wednesday night the Christian church meets the Hull trucks.

CALL CUNNINGHAM

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Assistant District Attorney George Broderick, in charge of the investigation into the Dolan-O'Connell baseball scandal, declared today he would request the presence of William Cunningham, Boston outfielder, during the local probe of the case, which will begin this week. Broderick made this statement when informed that Cunningham had been quoted as saying that Rose Young, one of the players involved in O'Connell's confession, had admitted that he knew of O'Connell's attempt to bribe Heinie Sands, but had regarded the matter as kidding.

TRACK TEAM OUT

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 26.—The University of Nebraska track squad will be represented by a team of twenty or twenty-five men early this spring for the meet with Stanford University at Palo Alto, Track Coach Schulte has announced here today. Schulte has more than a hundred candidates to pick from, he said.

O'CONNELL IS SILENT

BOYES SPRINGS, Cal., Jan. 26.—Jimmy O'Connell, the $75,000 Giant outfielder, accused of approaching Heinie Sand, Philadelphia shortstop and offering him $500 not to beat down in a crucial game with the Giants, thus precipitating the Dolan-O'Connell baseball scandal, refused today to discuss a new version of the alleged attempt at bribery.

CUNNINGHAM ILL

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 26.—William Cunningham, Boston Brave outfielder, was to enter a hospital here today to undergo an operation for appendicitis, according to his aunt, Mrs. John A. Cunningham.

Southern League Pilots

When the Southern league baseball schedule gets under way this spring, four clubs will have new managers. MILAN will be in charge of Memphis, BLACKBURN at Little Rock, ELBERFELD at Mobile and JOHNNY DORRIS at Birmingham.

CLYDE MILAN

RUSSELL BLACKBURN

KID ELBERFELD

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Written for The Evening News.

Changes in the personnel of the Southern association teams since the close of the 1924 campaign haven't been confined to the actual lineups of the teams. Four of the aggregations in that circuit are waiting to start the season of 1925 under new management. Two of these managers are newcomers to the association.

The two "baby managers" are: Russell Blackburn and Clyde Milan. Blackburn takes the helm at Little Rock. The season will mark his debut as a pilot. He was well known as a big league player through his work with the White Sox and Pirates some years ago. Then he slipped out to the minors, landing at Kansas City. That was four years ago. Since then he has been playing second base much of the time.

Last year his hitting fell off and it was only his aggressiveness and fielding that kept him in the lineup. He had had several lesser managerial posts offered to him in the last two seasons, but hesitated to try his hand at that angle of the game while he was still able to "step."

Milan, who cut his wisdom teeth as a manager last year with the New Haven club in the Eastern league, takes over the Memphis team, pennant winners last season.

The other two managerial changes in the circuit are the substitution of Johnny Dobbs for Stuffy Stewart as pilot of the Birmingham club and the shifting by Kid Elberfeld of his managerial regalia from Little Rock to Mobile.

When this article was written Stewart, retiring pilot at Birmingham, was still a member of the outfit. Huhn, the Kid's predecessor at Mobile, is no longer in the circuit.

New Orleans retains Larry Gilbert, who spurned big league offers a few years ago to remain at home in the Louisiana metropolis and guard his investments while playing with the Pelicans.

Bert Niehoff starts his first full season with Atlanta. He led the Mobile team to a pennant three years ago and carried them to second place two years ago. He moved to the manager's quarters at Atlanta during the 1924 season.

Strang Stricklin, president of the Chattanooga club, has announced that he's going to continue as nominal manager of his club the coming season, but there is general belief that he will tire of the dual role and place the responsibility on the shoulders of Pitcher George Cunningham or some one else before the season progresses far.

Jimmy Hamilton is the other manager to hold over. He carried the Nashville club from sixth place two years ago to a first division berth last year, and is immensely popular with the home fans.

Regardless of the playing displayed in the circuit this year the fans will have some fun watching the work of the managerial jockeys under their new colors.

SPORT CHATTER

By DAVID J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—What is termed a squawk accompanied by a demand for the revision of the Davis cup and national ranking committee is expected to emanate from the Pacific coast promptly with the dawn of another day, if the national lawn tennis rankings, to be made public tomorrow, place the name of Billy Johnston below that of Vincent Richards. The west coast has prepared itself for the worst and only awaits official confirmation of its fears to go into immediate action.

This, it is intimated, will take the form of a sectional demand that California, long the happy hunting ground of front rank players, shall have its place on committees that determine the status of the men in the game. The coast, it seems, is against taxation without representation but will go further than the mere gesture of kicking a lot of tea into Boston harbor. It plans to spill the beans all over the eastern seaboard.

The selection of the last Davis cup team, when William T. Tilden and Vincent Richards, the most improved player since Tilden himself came out of the where, were named for singles play, has staked California to the idea that the ranking of Richards above Johnston this year is inevitable. Out where the sun goes down, they regard such a rating as absurd, in spite of the fact that Richards won the Olympic title impressively, beat Johnston in the east versus west matches and scored successive victories over the Australians in the Davis cup singles.

They maintain that Johnston could have done the same thing with greater facility, sangfroid and effect, and according to the word of one of the players, Elmer Griffin, brother of Clarence something vaguely suggestive of backstairs methods is charged in the arrangement of the Richards-Johnston match of the east-versus-west series.

"Johnston had been given to understand that his selection for the Davis cup singles was as good as made," Griffin declared recently. "He wanted to put in his time in active practice for the international matches but abandoned the idea in order to make the east-west matches more interesting from a gallery standpoint. He had no idea that they were to constitute an issue between himself and Richards; apparently he was the only man on the ground who had not been given this understanding."

"Richards won the match, and with his victory, went his selection for the Davis cup singles as partner of Tilden."

It is a fact that apparently went unnoticed by Mr. Griffin that eastern tennis critics publicly hailed the Richards-Johnston match as an unofficial try-out for the Davis cup for some days in advance of the meeting. And when Richards won, not an astonished eyebrow was lifted as the committee named him for the first event of the tournament, the doubles team only for the first time since the Tilden-Johnston duo began successful operations back in 1919.

For it has to be borne in mind that the days of the gas house ringer who stayed in college until after the football season to play football and then quit are pretty much at an end. Brilliance on the football field is accompanied by brilliance in the class room and by acute nervous sensibilities.

Notre Dame plunged through the last football season undefeated and untied. At Northwestern late in the year, with adverse weather and ground conditions defeat seemed to be in sight for the South Benders. In the Carnegie Tech game it seemed to those who did not know the reserve power of the Indiana players that a good old-fashioned beating was in the offing.

The immense amount of physical stamina and nervous force expended in that great second half must have been tremendous. But in both games the team came through.

The Pacific coast trip capped the climax. Crowley did not seem unduly stirred by the jaunt, yet it was known that inwardly he was tense under the strain. The warm weather of California seemed to sap the entire team on the day of the game; Crowley became ill with acute indigestion on the field, but despite acute nausea and other symptoms he finished the game.

Then on the train, so the story goes, he collapsed and was so ill that his teammates took turns breathing into his lungs to keep him alive. He was hurried to a hospital and while the other players resumed their journey home he remained to be treated for what was diagnosed as an acute nervous breakdown.

All this points a moral concerning post season trips. Football players are not made of iron and steel and alumni and college athletic authorities who for one reason or another arrange these junkets are not living up to their responsibilities to a set of boys who are at a critical age.

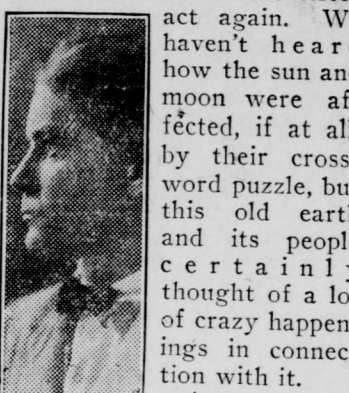

If Crowley had succumbed, as according to report, it was feared for a time he would, the cause of football would have received a bad blow. As it is it may be hoped that strenuous schedules and post season games have received a knockout punch.

A kitchenette, which may be folded and put away, has been invented.

SPORTDOM ALL OVER

By JOSEPH L. KELLEY
Of The Evening News Staff.

Good thing it's going to be 220 years hence before the sun, moon and earth do the sister act again. We haven't heard how the sun and moon were affected, if at all, by their crossword puzzle, but this old earth and its people certainly thought of a lot of crazy happenings in connection with it.

A gentleman of color and a mean razor, operating in the tontorial parlors of senate building in Washington, got so worked up about the solar phenomenon that he started slashing his customers' throats. He figured if the world were coming to an end that razor of the work it was made for besides cutting whiskers of law makers.

Gentleman of color waited until he got a customer all fixed for the latter, then he prophesied the millennium and started that razor cutting everything but whiskers. His customer happened to be an engineer in the government employ. Report didn't specify whether he was engineer of the Senate furnaces or a regular mechanic.

Colored gentleman heard there wasn't going to be another sun-moon-earth cross word puzzle for 220 years. In the meantime if life was going to end for him, he wasn't taking any chances on giving that razor of his a real workout.

Somewhere in Michigan party of solar bugs was all set to sail forth in a balloon when one of those Lake Michigan gales, about as gentle as a Kansas cyclone, hit Mr. Balloon broadside and ripped it from stem to stern. The Michigan party had to take New Haven's word for what happened.

It was a great day for the boys who spend their time and other people's money flitting with astronomical bodies—male and female. Like the Republican party they all saw prosperity regardless of how dark it was.

The earth could be surrounded, gagged, tied and quartered by all celestial bodies ever chronicled through telescope and the Republican party would see prosperity just the same.

Among other phenomena concurrent with solar eclipse, William Jennings Bryan realized the ambition of a lifetime—he got into the White House. No one seems to know who let him in but he was found in close consultation with "Silent Cal."

The Commoner proved conclusively that not even the sun, collaborating with moon and earth and Republican party could keep him out of the White House.

Bill made the remark when he was asked about what he thought about the eclipse that it was just like a Democrat's defeat—it wouldn't last long and the sun would shine again. Not so bad for an old fellow.

Everything from prosperity for the Republican party to earthquakes and hinted by the observers when the dance was over. If everything happens astronomers saw happening through their telescopes, the colored gentleman in Washington wasn't very far wrong in his deductions.

No word has come from the Island of Yap on its observations. Island of Yap figured prominently during great war by staying out of it. It probably figured the same way about this sun's flirtation with the earth and moon. Island of Yap gets brown derby. It was the only civilized community that didn't see prosperity in solar cross-word puzzle.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Another factional fight in baseball may result from recent developments in the Jimmy O'Connell-Coxey Dolan bribery case in the National league.

After demanding that Commissioner Landis make public the testimony which he obtained from the ball players at the hearing in New York in advance of the world series, regarding the approaching of O'Connell of Sand of the Phillies, some of those who were foremost in asking to see the "minutes" have suddenly come to the conclusion that O'Connell has been punished quite enough. Little attention is being paid to Dolan, who apparently is to be left to bear unaided any load that may have fastened itself upon his back.

The National league which, of course, bears the burden of this episode, as the American league was compelled to bear that of 1919, is not going to retract one whit through its officials the stand it has taken regarding the case and those involved in it.

So apparent is the attempt to mitigate the offense of O'Connell that it has aligned one set of men firmly against any efforts that may have been contemplated to ask the commissioner to restore him to good standing, or to reinstate Dolan. The latter's lawyer insists that Dolan is more innocent against than sinning and that he should be cleared by the commissioner. This does not mesh with the approbation of the stiff backed counselors of the National league unless it can be proved that Dolan is absolutely innocent.

As the evidence offered by O'Connell puts the thing directly up to Dolan, the commissioner would be compelled to reverse completely the finding that he made and absolve Dolan, presumably on the ground that the ball player had been trying to play a huge joke on the susceptible Californian. This would make the end of the affair farcical rather than tragic.

So bitter is the feeling on the part of some of the owners, that part of some of the owners, that has been charged and done might go so far as to split the major leagues into more factional groups than exist at present.

John A. Heydler, president of the National league, is rigid in his opposition to anything that may look like condonation of the attempted bribery. He will not recede from the stand he has taken for further investigation if there is any possible hope that further evidence might be unearthed.

Should the matter come to trial in the courts, as now seems probable, it is more than likely that efforts will be made to obtain from baseball men any facts they may have about the two dismissed players. Dolan is said to have been on the carpet before Judge Landis before and it is known that the owner of the Pittsburgh club is mortally offended against him. Whether these matters would be considered as having any connection with the charge made by Sand is one of the issues that is causing a lot of discussion among baseball men.

The effort to bring Ban Johnston, president of the American league into the controversy because he criticized the manner of the investigation of the New York players, causes some wonderment, since this affair is not one of the American league in any way.

ments and papers and the proponents of the resolution, the Inyo county ranchers and Senator Ralph Swing of San Bernardino, will be asked to present their case, after which the Los Angeles municipal authorities will be given opportunity to answer.

The chairman believes the committee, composed entirely of central California men, is compatible and he hopes against an undivided opinion.

Only a unanimous report will be convincing to the Legislature, I believe," Senator Jones stated.

Contrary to the original resolution, which was amended, U. S. Webb, attorney-general, and E. F. McClure, state engineer, will not accompany the commission.

Dr. H. C. Funk made mention of the valuable assistance rendered by the many friends of the congregation and the response to the appeal for funds brought a total of $4000, leaving the congregation in easy circumstances, with an edifice valued at more than $50,000. Dr. C. W. Maggart of Los Angeles delivered a sermon in the morning. Special music was rendered by the choir, with solos by J. H. Niebank of Glendale and Earl C. Houk of Los Angeles. Dr. G. H. Hillerman of Berkeley, general superintendent of missions, delivered a sermon on "The Glory of the Second Temple." He said:

"The first temple, that of Solomon, was without a rival in point of material splendor and costly magnificence, and yet the prophet Hagai stood before the second and less pretentious temple, proclaiming that its glory should be that of the former. The point of this excellence lay not in the building, but in the person of Him who should glorify this place with His presence. Into this second temple in the fullness of time God manifested Himself in the person of His Son, and through that manifestation the world has come to know God as a Father of tender love and boundless grace. The Jew had seen Him 'like as a Father.' Jesus proclaimed Him as 'Our Father.'

"In this temple 'God manifest in the flesh' appeared, not with silver and gold, for these are corruptible and temporary, nor yet with the blood of bulls and goats, for these are perishing, nor even yet through ministrations of a priest, who must first make atonement for himself, but with an offering without spot or blemish, one that was offered up once for all, and by a Priest 'after the order of Melchizedek,' who ever liveth. And through this Jew and all the world has full assurance of the fidelity of God and of their own safety.

Second Temple

"The former days of the Old Testament period held an unanswered question: 'Where is the fire and the wood, but where is the lamb?' It is under the shadow of the second temple that the answer is made, 'Behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world.' Upon the sons and daughters in those days is the Holy Spirit poured out, to lead and to teach in all things. Here-with comes the assurance, for the first time made clear that God shall himself perfect that which He hath begun and will present before Himself His own now made flawless.

"But beyond even these the second temple exceeded in glory in that it witnessed the advent of service of those whom God had called. It is now no longer a deserted people alone; the middle wall has been broken down and Jew and Gentile have equal access to the throne of grace. The widened commission reaches out to the uttermost parts of the earth, to the remotest nation under heaven. So your second temple, while exceeding your first in material splendor, will really exceed it only as it enshrines Jesus Christ, through the people present. Him and His grace more truly and more effectively to all the world."

A fellowship service will be held at the new church tomorrow night with Rev. Edward P. Scheuler of Pasadena in charge. Rev. H. J. Weaver of Huntington Park will speak on "Three Essentials of the Kingdom of God." Special musical numbers will be presented, followed by a social time.

tee's approval, this member will likely be some outstanding figure of recognized judgment. The senator also asked that the parties concerned provide a secretary-stenographer.

Written instructions are being forwarded both the Inyo county ranchers and the Los Angeles officials in charge of the public works bureau involved, to be ready for an initial conference February 1 in the city of Los Angeles.

"It is the commission's desire," said Chairman Jones, "to be first taken over the entire project, from the outlet of the Owens' valley water to the source of supply."

This will include a trip through the Hollywood hills, the San Fernando valley and its reservoirs, to the aqueduct and along its course across the desert to the open flumes of Owens' valley, the intake gates and thence to the tributaries of the river in the Sierra Nevada range.

As a second move, according to the senator, "hearings will be had in which each side will be requested to file copies of all maps, docu-

Four Widows Mourn In Herrin Klan 'Warfare'

was killed by Thomas, who shot him from behind. They say that the Klan leader fell dying, and with his last strength, fired the bullet that cut down the deputy sheriff who was reputed to be the head of the Knights of the Flaming Circle.

Anti-Klansmen Version
Anti-Klansmen declare that Thomas was trapped in a grill room by Young and his cohorts. They say Young, Forbes and Warren were in the grill room when Thomas walked in alone. Young immediately went for his gun, according to their version, but Thomas beat him on the draw, killing him. Then Klansmen on the outside started shooting into the room, according to Thomas' friends, and killed Thomas and two of their own men, Forbes and Warren, as well.

Anti-Klansmen today openly charged that the coroner's probe was a joke, that every juror was a Klansman and that the inquest would result in a Klan whitewashing.

Four women, widowed by prejudice and hatred, weep despairingly. The widows are Mrs. S. Glenn Young, Mrs. Ora Thomas, Mrs. Edward Forbes and Mrs. Homer Warren.

At different hours the widows visited the undertaking rooms. Three of the women stared at their dead with eyes that appeared not to register complete apprehension. The fourth touched with groping fingers the features of the man who had been her husband. She is Mrs. Young and she is blind.

Blind Widow Mourns
One of a score of bullets directed at her Klansman husband last May by anti-Klan gunmen permanently destroyed her vision.

All through Sunday, attired only in negligee, Mrs. Young sat up in her bed in the Young suite at a Herrin hotel, staring with unblinking, expressionless eyes.

"I wish I had been with him," she repeated listlessly. "I wish they had killed me, too."

Plans of Terusaburo Kuranaga, owner of the Japan Art & Tea Co., to be host to officials of the Chamber of Commerce and others on board the three Japanese battle cruisers now in San Francisco bay in the interest of friendly relations, will not be carried out, due to a change in plans which will prevent the ships from visiting Los Angeles harbor.

A telegram from Vice-Admiral Hyakulake, in command of the ship, was received by Mr. Kuranaga, of Glendale, today, stating that the trip south will not be made. Admiral Hyakulake and Mr. Kuranaga were school boy friends in Saga, Japan, 30 years ago. Since that time the admiral has distinguished himself in three wars as a hero of his nation.

Mr. MacBain is a member of the Elks lodge, Unity lodge of Masons, Unity chapter, Glendale Knights Templar, a director of the Glendale Kiwanis club, a director of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, and also a member of the Glendale City Council, a post which hundreds of his business friends and acquaintances are urging him to seek re-election at the coming city election.
